About Him

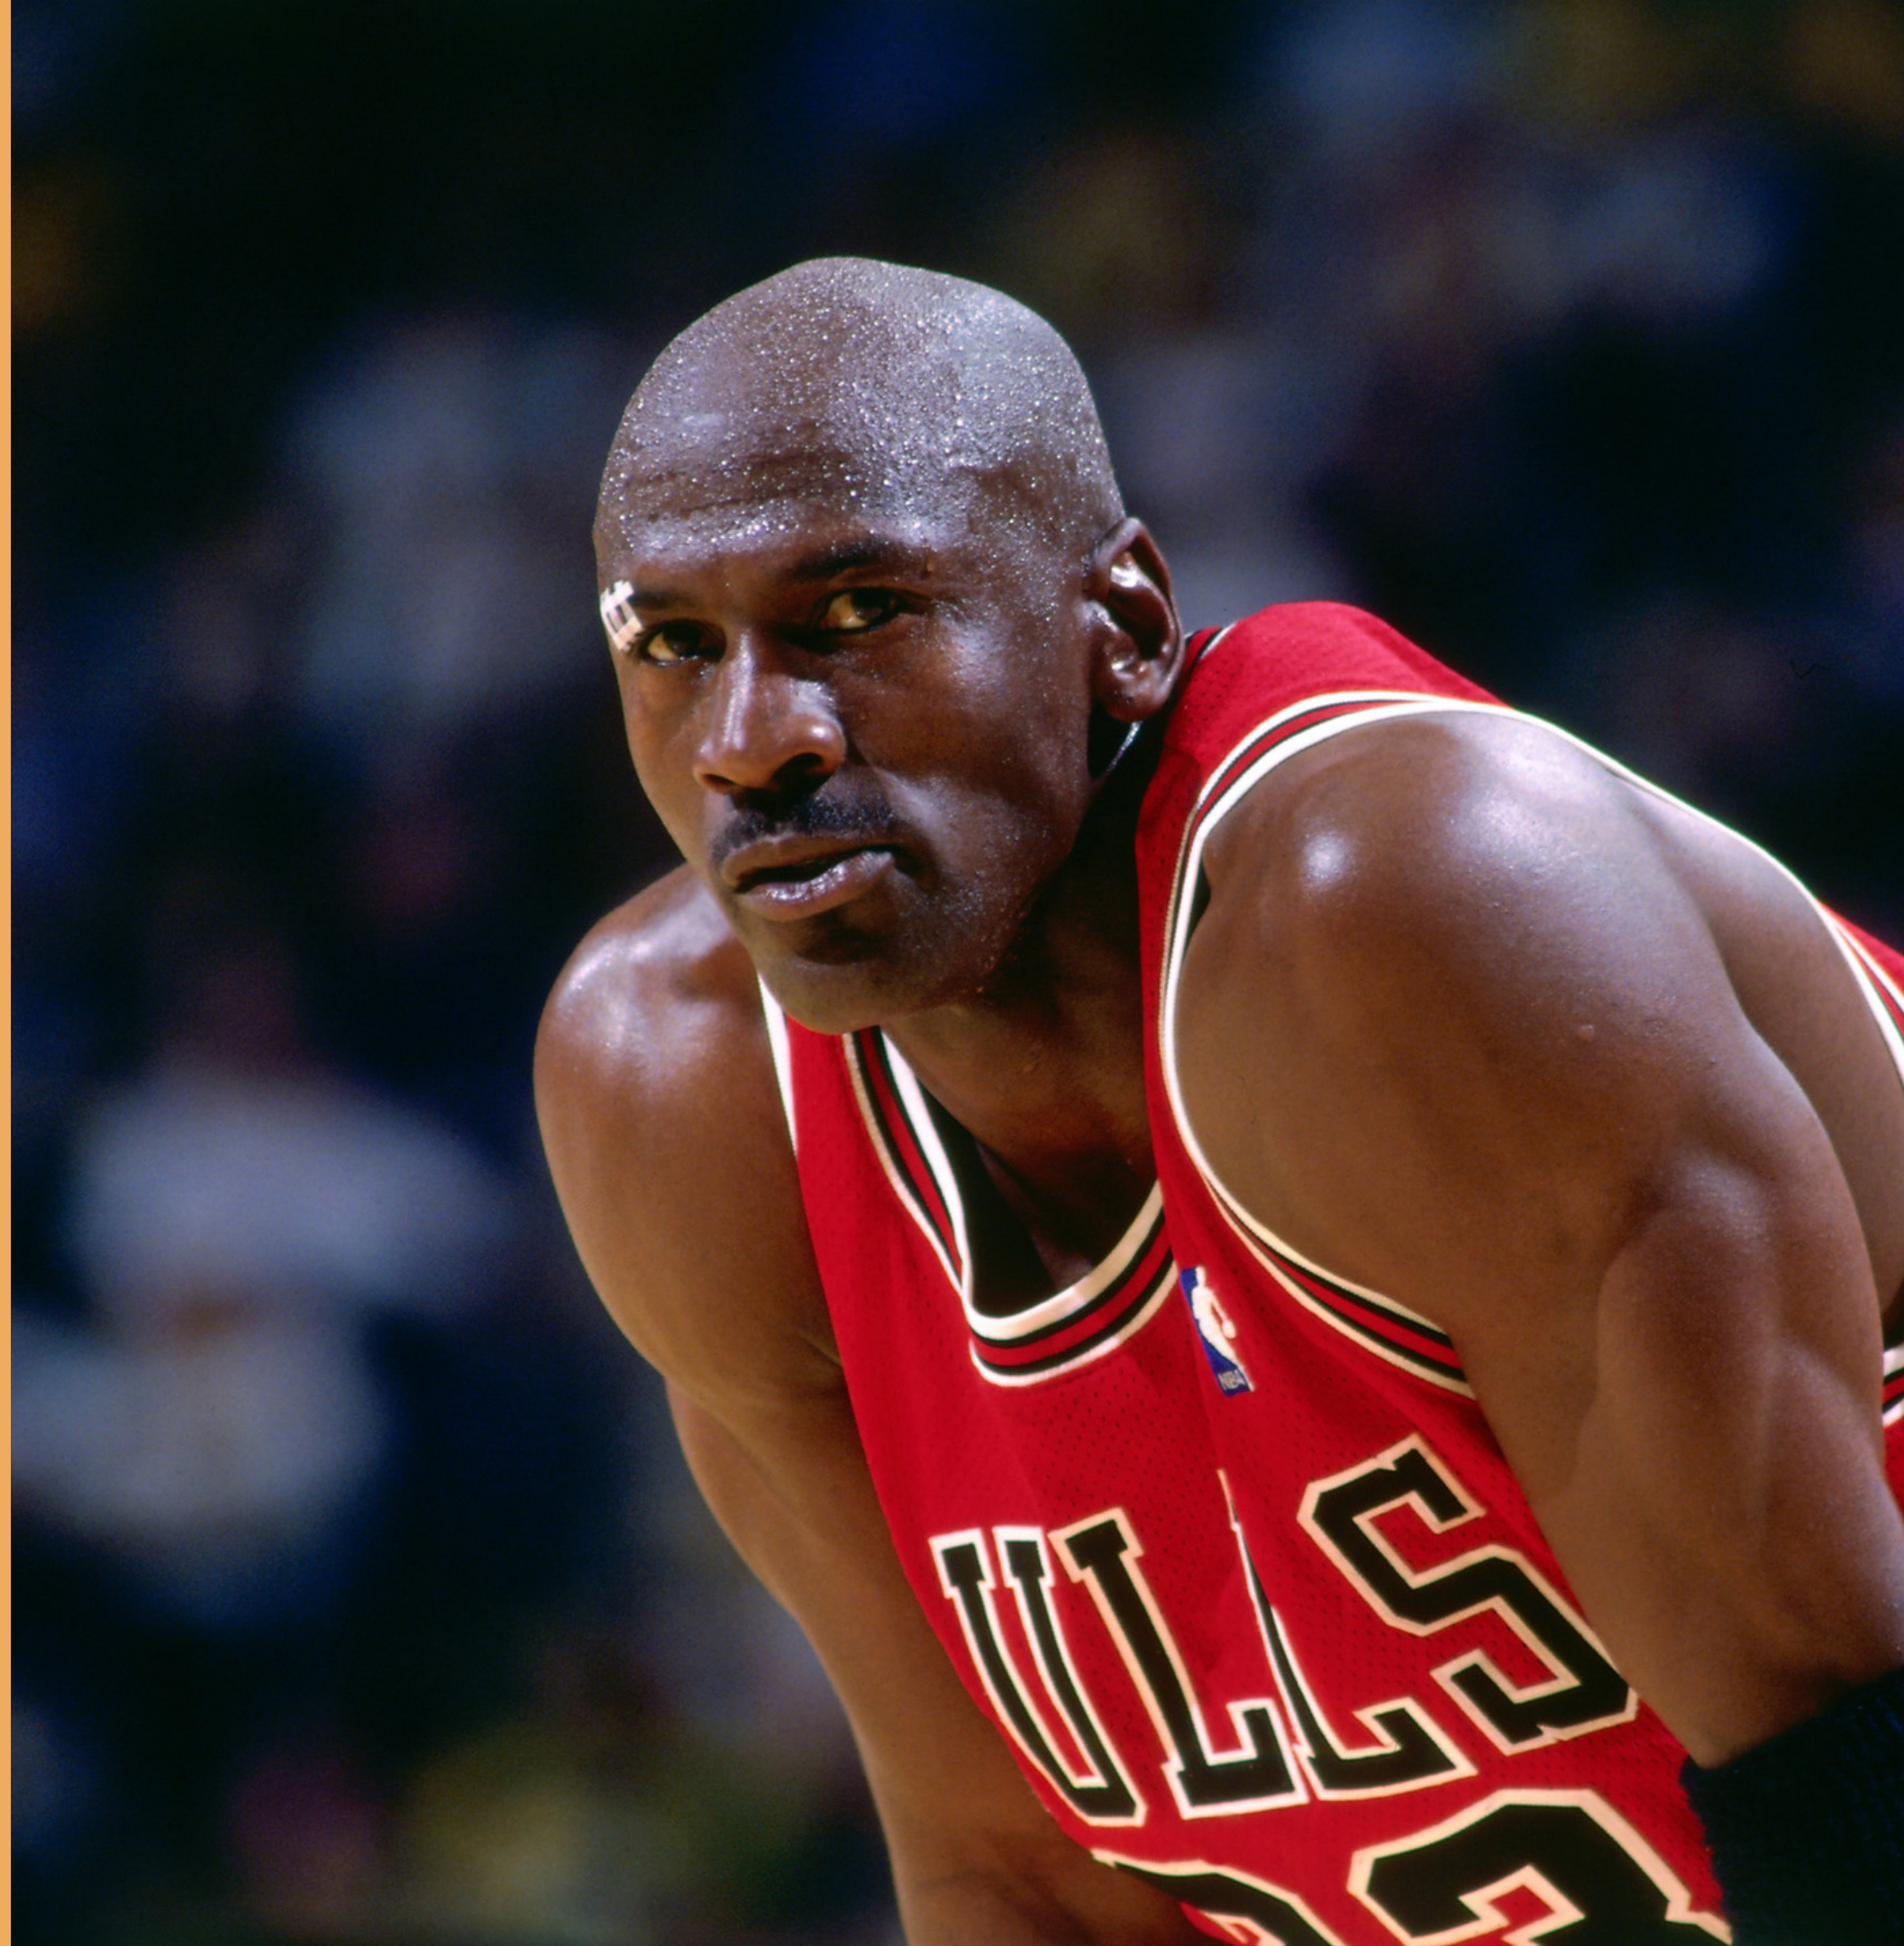

Michael Jordan is widely considered one of the greatest basketball players of all time.

He played for the Chicago Bulls and Washington Wizards, leading the Bulls to six National Basketball Association (NBA) championships during the 1990s.

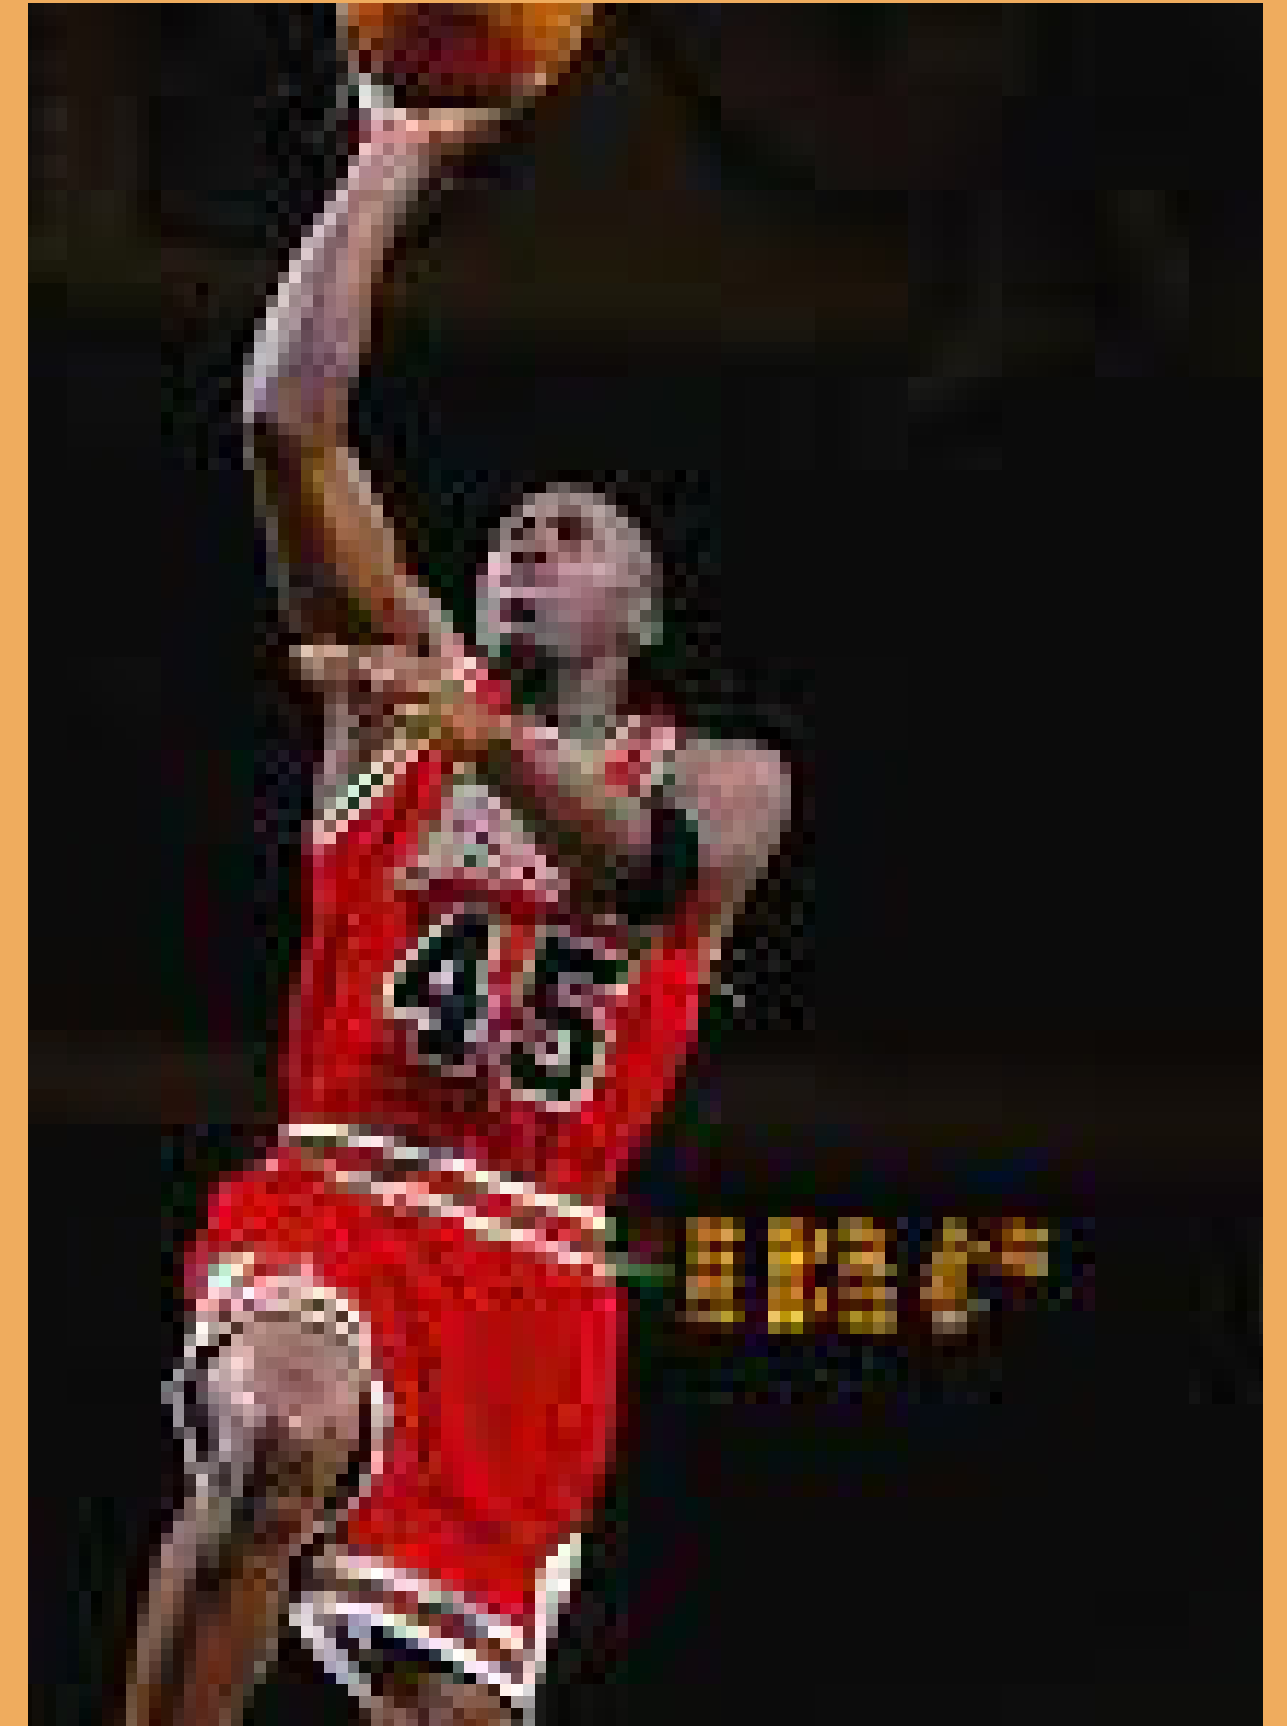

CAREER

- Michael played 17 regular season games. He averaged 26.9 points, 6.9 rebounds and 4.5 assists. His 41.1 field goal percentage was the lowest of his entire career, but he did have the legendary 55-point game against the New York Knicks.
- In 10 playoff games, MJ had 31.5 points, 6.5 rebounds and 4.5 assists.

- ▶ His Airness played only 18 games due to a severe broken foot.
- ▶ Instead of sitting out that season, Jordan pushed management and the coaches to play for a playoff spot.
- ▶ He averaged 22.7 points, 3.6 rebounds and 2.9 assists on 45.7 percent shooting.
- ▶ In three playoff games against the mighty Boston Celtics, Michael averaged an astounding 43.7 points, 6.3 rebounds and 5.7 assists on 50.5 percent shooting.
- ▶ He also dropped 63 points in Game 2, the highest total in playoff history.

- In 1992-1993, everyone was gunning for the two-time defending champions.
- So, MJ had to raise to the occasion once again, playing one of the best seasons ever without winning the MVP Award.
- Michael led the league in scoring (32.6 points) and steals (2.8). He also pulled down 6.7 rebounds and distributed 5.5 assists. His player efficiency (29.7) and win shares (17.2) were league bests.
- In 19 playoffs games, His Airness drilled 35.1 points, 6.7 rebounds and six assists while shooting 47.5 percent.

Achievements

- ▶ Michael Jordan is the only player to win NBA Defensive Player of the Year AND average 30 PPG in a season (35.0 PPG in 1987-88).
- ▶ Michael Jordan played his final game for the Bulls over 20 years ago. He only appeared in 21.3% of all regular season games in Bulls history (930 of 4,362).
